

PAT'S REGARD FOR TOM LOST HIM HIS JOB WHY THE PRESIDENT TURNED DOWN COLLECTOR GARRETT

The many friends of Pat Garrett, the picturesque New Mexican who is chiefly noted as the slayer of the notorious Billy the Kid, have been much surprised to see the president turn him down in making the appointment of collector of customs at El Paso.

The Los Angeles Times has found out that he lost the job because he took a gambler to dinner with the president at the time of the Rough Riders' reunion at San Antonio. The Times says:

Because he took a saloon man and gambler to dinner with President Roosevelt at San Antonio, Texas, last spring, Pat Garrett, famous throughout the west as the man who killed the noted bandit, "Billy the Kid," will not be reappointed collector of customs at El Paso. Garrett is a personal friend of the chief executive, but his blunder became a matter of considerable political significance at the time, and in consequence, so private advice from Washington state, the president has announced that he will no longer regard the El Paso collectorship as a personal appointment, as it was when Garrett was given the berth.

Garrett and Tom Powers, proprietor of the Coney Island saloon and former gambler, who is the man whom he took to dinner at San Antonio, are both in Washington, and telegrams from there announce that Garrett has given up hope of securing reappointment.

It was at the Rough Riders' dinner that Garrett made his fatal error. Roosevelt invited him to attend, and Garrett did so, taking Powers with him. The president did not until later learn who Powers was. When Garrett left for Washington last week he took Powers with him, against the advice of his adherents, declaring that he would be appointed with Powers or not at all.

The friendship of Garrett and Powers dates from the days when lawlessness ruled in the southwest, and Garrett, as a sheriff in New Mexico, was an unrelenting foe of bad men. Besides killing "Billy the Kid," Garrett caused the death of many other outlaws.

COMING ARMY CHANGES Proposed That General Weston Shall Succeed General Bates as Chief of Staff

Washington, Dec. 17.—A change has occurred in the state of prospective changes in the army resulting from the coming early retirement of Lieutenant General Chaffee, chief of staff. The proposed change has been made by the president, who has decided to appoint General John Weston to be chief of staff, with no increase of rank, on the retirement of General Bates in the late spring, in place of Major General Arthur MacArthur. It is not known who will be assistant chief of staff while General Bates holds the office of chief of staff, or whether it is intended to detail General Weston to that duty as a preliminary step toward his detail as chief of staff. It is also a matter of speculation as to whether General Weston or General MacArthur will succeed to the lieutenant generalcy on the retirement of General Corbin. General Weston retires for age in November, 1909, and General MacArthur retires for age in June of the same year, so that the promotion of General Weston would deprive General MacArthur of further advance in the ordinary course of events. But it is said to be possible that General MacArthur may be given the lieutenant generalcy and General Weston continued in the office of chief of staff for the remainder of his term on the active list without further promotion.

Silver Service for the Ohio.
Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 17.—The Ohio commissioner to secure a silver service for the Ohio has received two letters, one from B. H. McCulla, commandant of the Mare Island navy yard, San Francisco, saying that the silver service has been received by him and will be reshipped to the Ohio at Cavite, P. I., by the Lawton sailing on the 20th.

The other is from H. T. Scott, president of the Union Iron Works company, that built the Ohio, saying that the service consists of twenty-three pieces, the most he had ever seen presented to a naval vessel. In the light of these letters Representative Longworth's proposition to raise money for this purpose by congressional districts seems out of place.

An Odd Courtship.
Miss Blanche Gertrude Keik, of Allentown, Pa., last spring secured a verdict for $2,000 damages against Rev. Edgar J. Hellman, the reverend gentleman having failed to marry her according to promise. While the trial was in progress Miss Keik became acquainted with Adam J. Hummelback of Philadelphia, whom she has just married. The couple will go to house-keeping in a suburb of Philadelphia and the groom says that in fixing up a new home for himself and wife Rev. Mr. Hellman's $2,000 "will help some."

Russian Cinderella.
Grand Duchess Marie of Russia is the only daughter of Grand Duke Paul brother of the late Grand Duke Sergius. The former was banished from Russia after his second marriage, which was regarded as a scandal, and his little daughter, became the ward of Grand Duke Sergius, who, it will be remembered, was assassinated some months ago. The youthful grand duchess is only 15, very pretty and sweet looking, and she is generally designated the Cinderella of Russian princesses.

Up in Smoke.
James Tracy's residence at Deming was destroyed by fire last week. Loss about $5,000, insured for $2,500. This was an unlucky opening of the Christmas season for Mr. Tracy.

Big iron sign posts telling the way to every place on the map are to be placed all over Yavapai county, Arizona, by the board of supervisors. This is a most commendable innovation, which, if followed all over the territory, will save many lives on the desert.

Hoboes Get Worse.
Tucson is getting a bad name for the "undering" whites who in the winter time make a practice of coming to the southwest with the birds that fly before the wintry blasts of the north and east. The cops are rounding up the hoboes in bunches. They are taking a hunch and "pass 'em on the other side."

Here's a Jolt.
Statehood will settle the gambling vice in Arizona. The Chinese lottery games, which above all other kinds of gambling, is the worst, will find its Waterloo. Thus far, the Phoenix nest of gamblers have controlled legislation in Arizona on the gambling question for twenty years. It is no wonder they are so strongly opposed to statehood.—Arizona Daily Star.

The Daily Murder.
The dead body of an American was discovered yesterday about 2 o'clock where it had been thrown into an old assessment hole about half a mile this side of the pump house of the Bisbee Naco Water company at Naco, says the Bisbee Review.

That the man was murdered is evidenced by a gunshot wound in the back, tearing a large hole from which buckshot were extracted yesterday by the examining physician. There is absolutely no clue so far as to his identity, other than that he was an American, large in stature, with heavy dark hair, dressed in a black coat and trousers, no vest, a white shirt, celluloid collar with a small ready-made black bow tie, white cloth low cut shoes, and tan socks.

CHARACTER—

ONLY THREE RURAL MAIL ROUTES IN OPERATION IN NEW MEXICO

Special to the Morning Journal.
Washington, Dec. 17.—The postoffices at Artesia and Santa Rosa, New Mexico, have been raised from the fourth class to the presidential class. Hereafter the postmaster at Artesia will receive a salary of $1,400 per year. The office at Santa Rosa will pay $1,100.

Wilbur R. Mize has been appointed postmaster at Onawa, San Miguel county, New Mexico, to succeed R. L. Bigelow, resigned.

Among New Mexico visitors in Washington are A. E. Curran, of Tucuman; J. Leahy, of Raton, and Claude Albright.

The postmaster general's annual report just issued shows the gross receipts of the New Mexico postoffices to be $230,034.57 for the fiscal year ended last June 30. The average expenditure per capita in the territory amounted to $1.08. There are now 413 postoffices in New Mexico.

The report further shows that three rural mail routes to be established and in operation in the territory at the present time. During the past fiscal year three applications were made for the installment of this service, but upon investigation each received adverse reports.

SLAYER OF MARTINEZ SURRENDERS AT SPRINGER

Count Caldwell, Who Killed Man at Cimarron Gives Up.
Special to the Morning Journal.
Springer, N. M., Dec. 17.—Count Caldwell, the man who shot and killed Rupert Martinez at a Cimarron dance on the night of the first day of December, has surrendered to Deputy Sheriff Brown here. Brown immediately filed a complaint against him, charging him formally with the murder of Martinez. The prisoner waived preliminary examination and was placed under bond of $1,000 to appear in the district court of Colfax county at the next term.

Nothing has been done by the relatives of Martinez to prosecute Caldwell. It will be remembered that the coroner's jury at Cimarron found that the killing was done by Caldwell in self-defense. The latter who was attending school at Cimarron at the time of the trouble and is only eighteen years old says that he deeply regrets the affair.

Christmas Suggestions

A PERPLEXING QUESTION—That of deciding what to give to different members of the family for Christmas. However, Christmas is almost here and that question must be decided at once. It is not the cost of the present that makes it acceptable, but its appropriateness and suitability to the wants and desires of the recipient. For the guidance and assistance of those who are in doubt as to what to give we here submit a list of such things as would be suitable for the different members of the family:

For the Mother	For the Son	For the Children	For Grandmother	For the Daughter	For the Father
